ARTISTS Joanna Poulson and Heidi Profanter want to take people on a visual journey that questions the essence of life.

The artists explore birth, love, work, death and erotica in their joint exhibition

Authentic, at Poulson's home studio as part of next month's SALA Festival. The pair met at art school last year and this is their first joint exhibition.

Poulson, 33 of Prospect, who also works for a project management firm, uses her artwork to explore her love of working. "Not just in my corporate work but working on my art or renovating my home - I get a lot of pleasure from that," she said.

Profanter, 38, of Norwood, explores the connection between birth and death and the constant change in life.

■ Authentic opens at the Poulson & Profanter Studio, 15 Charles St, Prospect, on August 2. The exhibition can be viewed on August 2, 3, 9 and 10 from 1-5pm.
